ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The procedures for executing a plurality of applications to be integrated are defined on templates. Then, the applications to be integrated are executed by integration workflow means in accordance with the procedures defined on the templates. Thus, even though a plurality of applications provided within an enterprise are integrated and managed to produce a new added value by using a killer application, the number of processes and period of time necessary for development can be reduced.